The center line of the lens system should be oriented such that when it is falling so that it will pass through the surface of the at while the target will be hit when the so that it will even hit the target, the will pass through the target.