Engineers Seem To Get Blame, Scientists Credit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Engineers and scientists are a great team in the nation’s space effort, Dr. Rollin J. McCrory, mechanical engineering specialist from the Battelle Research Organization in Columbus, told youngsters at a special high school science program recently.

But laymen's descriptions of the results sometimes leave something to be desired, he suggested with a grin, explaining: "When it (a missile or the like) fails, they always call it 'an engineering failure,' and when it succeeds, they always call it 'a scientific achievement.'"
